This flat-roofed rowhouse is one and one-half stories high and two bays wide; it is located near the corner of Chase Street and Park Avenue and is surfaced in running bond brick.

The door, on the right, is rectangular; it is approached by a single stone step, and underlies a recessed wooden shingle panel which extends from atop the door to the double wooden string course which seperated the floors. The left ground floor bay houses a double hung eight over eight light window; a brick sill supports it, while a panel similar to that over the door fills the vertical space between it and the double course.

Above the course, three grouped windows, double hung with six over six lights and without sills or lintels, punctuate the facade. A raised brick course, interrupted by the window group, undrelies a slightly receeding shingled roof.

A drain pipe runs downs the right of the facade from the roof, slants across under the window group, and continues down the left side to the ground. A small light and mailbox are attached at the right of the door.
